A New Collaboration Designed to Enable Improved Outcomes
Supporting Provider-Sponsored Health Plans and Population Health Services Organizations

THE RACE TO VALUE-BASED CARE
The market is accelerating from volume to value-based care, where economic incentives for payers and providers are aligned to improve health status and outcomes for patients. According to an ORC International survey, 58% of providers and payers indicated they are moving toward adopting value-based reimbursement models.¹

The Lumeris proven value-based care managed services, combined with the Cerner Chilmark Research ‘Grade A’ recognized population health management technology, are designed to provide you with the necessary capabilities to succeed in value-based care.²

THE SUPPORT YOU NEED
To help you capitalize on these market trends, Cerner and Lumeris announced a strategic collaboration, known as Maestro™. Maestro combines the Cerner EHR-agnostic technologies and data and insights platform, HealtheIntent®, with Lumeris’ proven operational model and award-winning value-based care managed services to assist you in building out your own population health services organization (PHSO) or provider-sponsored health plan (PSHP).

As a part of the collaboration, Maestro will leverage HealtheIntent for workflow, analytics and operational services to help drive success in value-based contracts for all populations, such as Medicare Advantage, commercial and others. The offerings are designed to enable your organization to onboard not only clinical data from disparate EHRs but also financial and administrative data, providing a more holistic view of your populations.
